

Gulmohar "Gee" Ahluwalia

Gulmohar, aka Gee, is Youth Underground's "Saturday Snaps" Presenter. These are social media videos with facts and figures about human trafficking, based on United Nations (including its agencies) sources. Gee is an Indian-Australian Engineer turned pre-Law student. She works as a full-time Engineer but is planning to start law school to specialize in Criminal Law. Her engineering research used data to understand the different factors that affect the criminal justice system. She hopes to look at legal issues surrounding human trafficking in the future.

"Human trafficking is a multilevel problem that is influenced by issues in the prison system, reincarceration of trafficked victims, forced organ harvesting, underage labour, youth drug abuse and much more. It's a big problem when over 20 million people are trafficked every year, and forced sex generates billion-dollar profits. It's basically modern-day slavery and I hope to spread more awareness around the issue."
